Christmas: 1956

The thought for the evening at this week's AWS Cabinet Meeting, given by Shannon, Mihld, vice president, reflects the spirit of the Christmas season. This thought is particularly applicable in considering the state of affairs in our world this Christmas time, 1956. It is the universal Christmas wish of all people, everywhere, for peace.

*"'Twas Christmas Eve at Heaven's Gate, and Santa, earthward bound Had asked a soldier where and how his buddies could be found.
"And tell me what you think they'd like,"
said Santa with a smile,
"This bag of mine is full of gifts of every sort and style."
"My friends?" The soldier's eyes grew sad,
"You'll find them, Good Saint Nick,*

*"With tortured bodies, bent and maimed,
In places for the sick.
"What can you do for twisted wrecks of men who once were strong?
"What can you do for sightless eyes when days are dark and long?
"Dig deep into your bag, old friend, and find a cure for war.
"Put peace into the hearts of men to dwell forevermore." ♪*

Honor Roll

Being one of those DAR's who usually tries to make Honor Roll, I suddenly realized last week that with my 12 units of work this semester, I'm going to have a tough time getting onto the list.

Each unit of A work being equal to four grade points, the maximum I can get is 48 points. Honor Roll standing requires 54 points. Even if I come up with a 4.0 average, someone with a straight 3.0 in 18-units will make the Roll, and those attempting a more modest load will not.

Since almost all indications of academic standing are based on average, why shouldn't the Honor Roll? Sure, it takes more time to figure averages, but it would be a more accurate indication of who is at the top.

If the Honor Roll is worth having, it's worth doing accurately, and we don't get a really accurate picture under the present system. If the Honor Roll was not used as a measure of how well people were doing, it wouldn't be important, but people do look to the Honor Roll for this type of information, and the information they get can be misleading. The administrative council should at least inquire into the possibilities of changing the scheme. —W. H.

The Chaplain

For nearly three semesters now the college has had a chaplain, who became a full-time member of the college staff this semester. We feel that in the most critical analysis possible—that of actual practice—the office has completely justified itself. Or, maybe, that the man has justified his office!

Bob Bobilin has truly become a member of the whole college family. He has realized the importance of his administrative functions, and isn't out to "save" the erring souls on campus. He has represented fairly different denominational groups, and has, we feel, always tried to keep in mind the good of the entire college, not just one segment.

He is the kind of person one can feel proud to have represent the college, and its spiritual aspirations. Perhaps the greatest tribute we can pay him is the fact that we don't think of him as "A Minister," but rather as a friend, with whom we can joke around, disagree with, and include in our activities. —W. H.

Music Department

One of Whittier's most outstanding departments, and one we get in the habit of taking for granted is the Music Department, with its outstanding faculty personnel, devoted students and myriad of activities reaching not only most of the college family, but also the local citizenry.

In addition to serving a direct academic purpose, the department provides a great many of the cultural activities of Whittier College and the surrounding community. Its members, faculty and students, participate in such groups as Civic Light Opera, College-Community Symphony, church choirs, Community Concert Association, and carry out such activities as the A Cappella Choir Tour, faculty and student recitals and many other events.

Indeed, for many students the biggest moment in a college career is the senior recital. We regret that we sometimes overlook these events and many other worthwhile activities of the Music department, but no department which reaches so many diversified elements on campus can ever pass out of mind for very long. Keep up the good work, we do appreciate it! —W. H.

FASTEST TOUR of Southern California Bob O'Brien, Director of Alumni Relations, ever took was by Navy Jet at 500-m.p.h. last Halloween Day. As a sequel to a tour to Pensacola, Florida, O'Brien not only rode in the jet, but also took the controls!

Jet Rides, Aircraft Carrier Trips Part of O'Brien's Work at Whittier

by CHARLES ANDRAIN

Robert O'Brien, director of Alumni Relations has had probably two of the oddest assignments of any of the college administrators this year. He represented Whittier on a four-day cruise to Pensacola, Florida as a guest of the Navy, and took a 500-mile-per-hour tour of Southern California on Halloween day, not by broomstick, but by Navy jet.

Along with 90 other college administrators, high school principals, and business men, O'Brien was a guest of the Secretary of Navy at Pensacola earlier in the fall. There, at the basic air training center for the navy, he went on a Naval Orientation Cruise. The purpose of the four-day tour was to acquaint people with the functions and problems of the naval air reserve training program.

Jet Attack

Mr. O'Brien was very much impressed with his trip. At Pensacola he got a first-hand, on-the-scenes, view of how the naval program is conducted. He saw an air sea rescue demonstration, and vividly experienced a simulated jet attack. Four jets drove straight at him! While on the U.S.S. Saipan, he watched a student pilot making his first landing on a carrier. O'Brien also had a chance to observe how ladders are rigged so that men may be transported between two moving ships.

At the Pensacola base, Mr. O'Brien heard the Naval Aviation Air Cadet Choir, and inspected the naval planetarium

Letter to Editor

To the Editor:
LET'S NOT STREAMLINE!
I am against eliminating the AMS, AWS or any other such groups on Whittier College Campus.

Because (1) By doing away with these so called cumbersome groups the chance for students who want to serve the school or class is lessened.

These groups serve as leadership building organs just like our governors and senators are for the eventual possibility of nomination for president. These groups AMS, AWS classes of officers are not nonfunctional or they would not have been or (Continued on Page 6) and classroom buildings.

O'Brien himself has had previous naval experience. From 1946-1948 he was a radio operator at sea. He reports that it was good to feel again the salty smell, the roll of the sea, the drum of engines.

Riding in a Jet

As a sequel to his Florida naval cruise, Bob O'Brien got to take the Navy Jet ride on Halloween, Oct. 31. The trip started at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station in Long Beach. The flying sensations one feels are similar to those felt at the end of the crack of a whip. There is a sudden change of gravitational pull on the body. The body weight is increased. The mouth falls open. The stomach sags. The head bobs. There is a general dizzy and groggy feeling. O'Brien said that he felt as if every organ in his body was pulling in the opposite direction. What an exciting Halloween treat!

The plane he rode in was a TV2, the navy version of the Army Shooting Star. From Balboa Bay, to Mt. Wilson took only four minutes. He flew over Whittier College at just under 500-miles-per-hour. The plane handles smoothly. O'Brien reports. The pilot went through some slow rolls.

Takes the Controls

When O'Brien had sufficiently recovered, the pilot let him take over the controls. Jet rides are rather expensive. It costs $50 an hour to operate one. He took some 16mm color film during the trip and will be glad to show them to any interested person. He says that you can really feel those rolls when watching the film.

For all who are interested, Mr. O'Brien has information on the naval air program, including pay and commission. A fellow who wants to fly in a jet should investigate. If he passes the physical examination, he will get a free ride as a guest of the U. S. Navy.

DEAR SANTA:

Before you get too busy this Christmas season with all your traditional duties, and the ole gang "officially" gets its long awaited vacation, we think ya oughta know . . .

—that Exec approved the ASWC budget for the second semester and it also made a recommendation for the first semester budget to the new Exec for future reference . . . and that ASWC expenses for the current semester will be published in the Jan. 10 issue of the QC by the recommendation of Exec.

—that the faculty recently voted on the proposal that under proper control the campus be opened to denominational and other student religious groups. The first of these denominational clubs desiring official recognition appeared before Exec Tuesday. The matter was delegated to a special Exec committee to study the club constitution before presentation for approval.

—that a committee has been appointed by Exec to study the ASWC student body fees and their distribution to the ASWC, AMS, AWS and classes. It seems that in some respects the budget appropriations are out of proportion, but more on this later, alligator.

—that Exec has proposed that the editor of the Poet Handbook shall be appointed by the Board of Publications and be paid a salary of $500.00. These proposals will be voted on at the next Exec meeting. In order to pass, the proposals must receive a unanimous affirmative vote.

—that Doug-boy has some jokes (?) . . . Kiss in the Dark—they say that love is blind . . . but it sure seems to find its way around in the dark! Or how 'bout this one . . . Wine, Women and Song—if you don't have time for wine, women and song . . . give up singing! Then there's this one—weight and see—did you know that 250 Whittier College women are dieting . . . of course, these are round figures! Sayonara, amigos . . . Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year—the creep and the vee!

OLD SAINT NICK, Dr. E. Ray Nichols, hooks up one of his reindeer, Donna Searing, for his visit to the annual President's party which was held in Provident Hall last night. The party, given by President Paul Smith, featured caroling, the telling of Christmas stories, musical entertainment and Santa's visit, which was followed by a dance sponsored by the freshman class.

Holiday Festivities Hit Poet Campus

A festive spirit has hit the College campus as the Christmas holiday nears. One of the largest decorated Christmas trees in the city stands on the college campus near Mendenhall.

Elsewhere on campus, Christmas trees are being decorated in the administration lounge and in the various lounges of the dorms; stockings have been hung over fireplaces and rooms of students and especially doors have been imaginatively bedecked.

Special Projects
The Broadboks School, the Reading Clinic, and the Speech and Hearing Clinic, which all work with the small fry, have planned special parties and projects for Christmas. Religious convocations and chapels help remind students of the deeper meaning of Christmas.

Societies and dorms sponsor Christmas parties for old folks, orphans, the mentally ill and the underprivileged. President Smith holds his Christmas party for the entire Whittier College family.

Students, realizing the end of the semester near, sound their good intentions to catch up on study over the holidays; and in the halls they can be heard discussing Christmas shopping or vacation plans.

Vacation Jobs
A very high percentage of students will take part time jobs during the vacation. The post office seems to be one of the most popular place for students to work. Others will help out in various stores to meet the surging Christmas shopping trade.

while a few will be working in counting jobs at vacation camps.

Studying and term papers figure to play an important role in the vacation of some of the students while others are planning just fun, relaxation and enjoyment of the family.

One of the more exciting vacations is perhaps the one in store for Jean Claude Chadelat, the Fulbright exchange student from France, who will take off "free as the wind" on a cross country bus hitch-hiking excursion to New York City.

News in Brief

Library hours during the Christmas vacation have been set up as follows:

Friday, Dec. 14 the library will close at 5 p.m. and will remain closed all day Saturday, Dec. 15. Dec. 17, 18, 19, 26, 27 and 28 library hours will be 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. It will be closed Dec. 20-25.

All dormitories will close at 12 noon, Saturday, Dec. 15 for the Christmas vacation and will remain closed until Tuesday, Jan. 1 at 3 p.m. No dorm will remain open for students not leaving for the holidays.

• With 18 students registered for the conference, more are expected to register in the next few days. According to Ellen Fisk, chairman, registrations will be taken at the conference grounds once the group arrives.

Ted Cole, the featured speaker of the event, is at the present time traveling around the world. He is one of the editors of the Christian Century magazine and is the chaplain at Lindenwood College in Missouri.

Q-C SCHEDULE

Only one more paper will be published during this semester. It will come out Thursday morning, Jan. 10. Deadline for items is Tuesday morning. No paper will be published thereafter until February.

Harvard Offers National Grants

Window Gets French Motif

An authentic French creche will be on display at the California Bank during the Christmas season, according to Dr. James F. Marshall, head of the Department of Modern Languages at Whittier College.

While touring and studying in Southern France last year, Dr. Marshall collected the figures used in the nativity scene. They are the type used in the villages of Provence which include many models of local people—the village priest, mayor, various tradesmen and other typical citizens.

Members of the college art classes created the background for the display modeled on the village of Gordes.

AWS Talkin'

by BRAHNA LAUGER

AWS Cabinet recommended that any AWS funds unused at the end of the fiscal year revert to the ASWC, at the Monday evening meeting held in Dean Gregg's office.

In advancing this plan, the cabinet feels AWS can best serve women students by remaining an autonomous organization in regard to finances, and yet recognize the need of employing all available student body funds for the use of the entire college.

The proposal of centralized budgeting of all funds through Exec would mean that AWS would have to submit a budget to Exec requesting the AWS dues paid by each woman as part of her registration fees.

There is a large balance in the AWS ledger. Perhaps, this is a sign that AWS is not really fulfilling the needs of Whittier College women. In light of this question, the cabinet will hold a special Saturday meeting at the beginning of second semester to consider the ways in which AWS funds are being used.

The AWS budget will be published in the next issue of the Quaker Campus.

All the birthdays of AWS members are posted on a calendar in the general office in Founders now, thanx to Pat O'Dell.

Christmas Parties Top Dorm Events

The girls dorms this past week have been having Christmas parties, prior to the great exodus towards homes far and near for the holidays.

PHILADELPHIA HALL
Baking cookies for the elderly people at the Metropolitan State Hospital in Norwalk was the Christmas project of the girls of Philadelphia Hall. Instead of buying gifts for each other, the girls used their money to make the cookies.

On Wednesday evening, the girls went to the hospital and distributed the cookies and sang Christmas carols.

When they returned to the dorm, they had refreshments and sang Christmas songs. The head resident, Miss Nancy Heldrich, and housekeeper, Mrs. Nellie Enlow, were presented with gifts from the girls at this time.

NEWLIN HALL

To celebrate Christmas, the 44 girls of Newlin had a caroling party Monday night. They sang carols around Whittier and at the Murphy Memorial Hospital.

After the caroling, they returned to the dorm to have a Christmas party. Mrs. Virginia Siple, the head resident, Elaine Smith, assistant head resident, and Mrs. Frances Parky the housekeeper were presented with gifts from the girls.

EARLHAM HALL

Last week was "Secret Pal Week" for the girls at Earlham Hall. Every day during that week each girl put a little "favor" in her secret pal's room.

On Monday night when the dorm held its Christmas party, each girl gave her secret pal a gift which revealed who they were.

A large Christmas card was presented to the dorm with a sketch of each girl inside.

WARDMAN HALL

In keeping with the Christmas spirit, small gifts were exchanged by the girls at Wardman Hall last Tuesday night, following their regular dorm meeting.

Along with the giving of gifts the girls served refreshments and sang Christmas carols. Virginia Buck, social chairman, was in charge of the activities.

PLATNER HALL

A Christmas get-together was held in Platner Hall, following the regular dorm meeting last Tuesday night.

Helping with the games, caroling and refreshments were Lorna Curtiss, Patsy Phillips, Marion Schwander, Donna Searing and Susy Thompson.

McMurtry Gets Another Honor

John McMurtry, captain of this year's football team, was named to the third team of the Little All-America football selections for the past season and was the only Poet to make the honor squad with the exception of an honorable mention for Whittier tailback Gary Campbell. There was no SCIAC man on either the first or second Little All-America teams and only McMurtry on the third team. Occidental's star quarterback Jack Kemp joined Campbell on the list of backs receiving an honorable mention. Pepperdine's Wixie Robinson made the third squad as the guard opposite McMurtry.

McMurtry, a standout for the Poet team all season, proved himself an able competitor time and time again and displayed skill and desire to win as he consistently turned in stellar performances and led the Poets through the past season as their captain. Campbell, the Poet tailback this past season was one of the finest passers in the league as well as leading the conference in total offense with a game average of 126-yards-per-game, which was one yard better than Oxy's Jack Kemp.

Oceanside Varsity Falls to Poetbabes

by Dick Herman

Taking on the Oceanside JC's Varsity the Whittier Frosh set them down, 82-76, last Saturday night on the loser's home court.

Al Balen, forward, was high point man with 31 points. Bill Bournt who did most of his best shooting in the second half was second point man with 15 and Bill Hollinger, guard, was third with 14.

When asked what he could attribute the team's improvement to Len Craven, Frosh coach replied, "Our improvement is in team play and conditioning." This is evident in the team's offensive average of 72, and the increase in their offensive scoring, with the Santa Ana game 60, Westmont 74, and 82 for the game at Oceanside.

At the Oceanside game the scoring was good all around, but without Bob Sanford, center, rebounding the team would definitely be hurt. The two guards, Bill Hollinger and Bob Bender, are doing a commendable job on defense, however the defense in the Oceanside game was some what ragged.

Poets Entering Reno Tourney

Whittier College's varsity basketball team travels to Reno, Nev., to participate in the Northern Conference Tournament Dec. 27, 28, and 29.

Eight teams are entered in the double elimination tourney. Whittier and Willamette, of the Southern Oregon Conference, fill the two invitational slots. The remaining six entrants are: San Francisco State, Sacramento State, Cal Aggies, Chico State, Humboldt State, and the University of Nevada.

The tournament play replaces the Poet's usual Northern California road trip.

Rogatory Remarks

by Rog

(This week's column is being written by QC sports staff writer Lyndon Taylor, who will become Sports Editor next semester.)

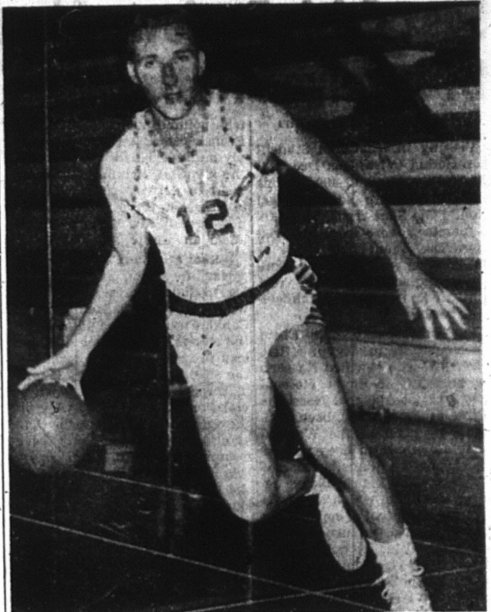

by Lyndon Taylor

With the coming of another holiday season, our thoughts, especially those of us whose homes are a great distance from school, fondly turn to the trip home for a visit with our relatives and friends. For those who live closer to school however, there remains the opportunity to keep in closer contact with our college friends through attendance at the various activities that will take place during the vacation.

One of the activities that will occur is a basketball game to be played next Tuesday in Wardman gym between the Poets and Chapman College. This game should prove to be a good one as both teams have shown strength so far this season. Going to this basketball game would seem like an excellent way to relax after a day of Christmas shopping or a day of work and would certainly show the team that the students take an active interest.

After Christmas the Poet roundballers journey to Reno, Nevada for the Reno Tourney which starts Dec. 27 and lasts until the 29. Tournaments of this type always provide a surplus of excitement and should prove to be well worth-while to anyone interested in seeing some good basketball and incidentally getting away for a little vacation before the end-of-the-semester grind with the text books.

From basketball back to the subject of this last football season, special congratulations are certainly due John McMurtry for being selected for Little All-America honors. He has worked hard all season and is certainly deserving of this honor. Congratulations also to Gary Campbell for the honorable mention that he received. Let's hope that next season we can see many more Poet names on this team!

WINNING POINT in the San Diego State game was sunk by Ron Thom, who turned a 69-70 deficit into a 71-70 victory after Chuck Hasley stole the ball from the stalling Aztecs in the closing second of the game last week end.

Poets Win From Both S. D. Teams

The Poets picked up their third win of the season last Saturday as they drubbed the University of San Diego team 62-46. The game saw the Poets put on a second half drive to win easily over the faltering San Diego squad. The Poets were paced to victory by Chuck Hasley and Earl Reese who each scored 12 points. High point honors for the evening however, went to the loser's Ken Leslie who tallied 13 counters.

S.D. State

After a slow start, coach Aubrey Bonham's Poets went on to score a stunning 71-70 victory over the highly rated San Diego State Aztecs in a tilt played last Friday night in Wardman gym.

The Poets, underdogs in the game, appeared to be conscious of this fact as they trailed by a score of 12-6 after only four minutes of play, but at this point the Poet attack took form as they scored 31 straight points in the next five minutes to forge ahead

17-12. San Diego wouldn't say die, however, as they regained possession of the ball and the lead. Whittier had caught on fire, however, and was not to be denied as they went on another scoring spree and left the floor at the intermission with a 36-33 lead.

Point-for-Point

In the second half the game tightened up as each team matched the other point for point. With but 18 seconds to go in the game it looked as if the Poets were going to be defeated as the Aztecs held a slim 70-69 lead and were controlling the ball with a stalling technique. Suddenly Whittier forward Chuck Hasley stole the ball from San Diego guard Blake Neal and fired a pass to Ron Thom who scored on a lay-up to give the Poets their slim victory.

Suez Crisis Reviewed by Nationals Of Involved Nations at Visa Meet

by Maky Chu and Peng Lim

Visiting International Student Association (Visa) met Dec. 1 at Mt. SAC, with about 400 persons in attendance to hear a panel discuss the Suez crisis. The panel members were from involved countries. About half those at the meeting were from the sponsoring Rotary Clubs, the rest were students from approximately 40 nations.

who pointed out that the Anglo-French attack on Egypt is simply an imperialistic design. With the invasion, Britain and France tried to destroy rising prestige of Nasser in Egypt, but they cannot destroy the strong nationalism in Egypt.

Suez Company's Failures
Hassan Adam, (Chaffey College), Sudan, gave the reasons why Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal. First of all he pointed out the stories on the other side; one can press in presenting some of the stories of the other side; one of these is the Suez Company's violation of the rules made in the agreement in 1868 at the Constantinople Convention. The Company failed to train Egyptian technicians and to expand the Canal. He further said that since the nationalization of the Canal is for the prosperity of the Egyptian people, it is in accordance with UN Charter.

On the other side of the question, Donald Blything from England (Redlands) pointed out that the Canal originally, belonged to France and Britain. When the British soldiers left Egypt a few years ago, an agreement was made that British soldiers would return to Egypt in case of danger. However, he personally disagrees with the Anglo-French attack on Egypt because Britain and France lost prestige throughout the world.

Attack Unnecessary
Louis Bathish, (Pomona College), Israel, agreed with Donald Blything that Anglo-French and Israeli action in Egypt was unnecessary and that the problem could be solved by peaceful means.

Charley Cringle, (Costa Mesa), England, gave a long summary of the background of the existence of the Suez Canal and Britain's dependence upon the natural resources from all over the world through the Canal.

(2) As for centralizing control under exec an oligarchy can easily be set up and have complete dominance over all school actions and thought.

(3) As for economic control of all groups by Exec, there should be a check on their surplus funds and if there is a large sum of money not being saved for a reason or being used the student exec should have some way to transfer this money to the Exec when and if necessary.

This does not mean these groups should be done away with because it is the quickest way to get control of these money strings. For it should be known that our exec is in need of funds and it is bad that they have not thought twice before spending our money not knowing where the future dollars are coming from. Just a little foresight.

So then all I can say is this type of streamlining is not good and should not be applied into action or not at least in the manner prescribed by our exec.

Amendm'ts, Decisions Highlight 5-Hour Meet

Meeting for over five hours Tuesday night, Exec transacted all unfinished business, made a number of important decisions, and proposed two constitutional amendments.

The first amendment will remove the publication of the Poet Handbook from the jurisdiction of the Q-C, and place it under the Board of Publications, which will appoint the editor each spring. The second amendment sets $100 as the salary of the Handbook editor. Both proposals will be voted on at the next Exec meeting, and require unanimous approval.

Frosh Football Award
Exec appropriated $150 for the purchase of gold miniature footballs for the championship Frosh team, and selected the perpetual Exec key which will be handed down from each member to his successor. The keys are being ordered and will be paid for out of next semester's budget.

As a result of the complexities of the problem of student body finances in relation to AMS, AWS and classes, a committee was set up to investigate the entire financial allotment system, and make recommendations for redistributing money, or for raising or lowering fees. The Exec proposal to reorganize or dissolve these groups has been set aside while this committee is conducting its investigation.

Budget Session
The major item of the first part of the meeting was the approval of the most detailed budget ever presented to Exec. It was approved with only minor changes, and will be summarized in the next Q-C along with a schedule of the past semester's finances. Exec turned down a proposal to finance an official representative to the Asilomar Conference, feeling that the school was already adequately represented.

The constitution of the proposed Aquinas Club, made up of Catholic students, which is the first denominational group to seek recognition, was referred to a committee which will make a recommendation at the next meeting. Rev. Bobilin presented background for the issue; and presented the recommendation of the faculty committee working on the question of recognizing denominational groups, which appears in the affirmative.

Co-Curricular Committee
Dr. Pyle presented to Exec the changes the faculty committee studying the co-curricular committee has made in the original Forest Home-Exec recommendation. Exec approved the faculty committee changes, and the report will now be submitted to the full faculty, and will go into effect if passed by that group. At this point only the 15-member co-curricular committee is being proposed. If approved, it will lay the groundwork for the rest of the co-curricular program.

Dean Reinstedt was asked to reactivate the Board of Publications, and Exec referred the problem of the editorship of the Q-C next semester to the Board. Adjournment came at 11:45.
