Model United Nations opened officially with the key-note speech by Dr. Tsiang Tingfu, Ambassador from the National Government of China to the United Nations. Others on the evening's program were Dr. James Watkins, welcoming the delegates on behalf of the university, and Al Lowenstein, who extended the greetings of the American Association for the U.N. After electing the seven vice-presidents and members of the credentials committee, the agenda as presented to the Gen eral Committee was adopted. The conference concerned itself with issues on the Middle East, South Africa, West Iran, Hungary, Cyprus, Algeria, and interests of the committees and councils.

More than 550 delegates from colleges and universities of Cali-fornia, Arizona, Oregon, Wash-ington, Nevada, Utah, and Idaho participated in the three-day conterence. All formal and many in-formal meetings and activities

News in Brief

Students planning to work this summer who have lost their so-cial security cards or do not have one may obtain application blanks from Dean Reinstedt's office. Most employers insist upon seeing the card when an applica tion for employment is made.

Application blanks for In-Residence Scholarships are now available at the Office of Admissions in the Administration Annex. Students are reminded to return the materials by May 25.

Students and faculty who did not have their Tuberculin Test read or evaluated are asked by the Student Health Service write a note, phone or drop in and tell them the reaction.

The Campus Inn will not be serving meals this summer, since it is to be moved to make way for the new wing on Hoover Hall

Assignment of rooms in women's dormitories will begin Wednesday, Maq 15. Instructions have been posted in the dormi-tories and in Miss Malone's office,

Now Is The Time.

Present conditions demand a new library for Whittier College. In the past year we have heard much talk about plans for developing and expanding the college building program. Yet the Administration has announced no specific plans for constructing a library, although the need is recognized.

Mendenhall was not designed for a library. There is absolutely no space for expansion. In five years there will be no room for additional books. What will be done then? The college recently took a step forward by adding a microfilm library. Yet so much more is needed. But there just is not enough space. Listening rooms for use by music and foreign language students and special rooms for art and book displays would add to the value of the college library.

Our present library has a dark, gloomy atmosphere and is in a rather inaccessible location. It stands in striking contrast to other college libraries. Pomona College and UC at Santa Bargara have recently finished beautiful, well-designed librar-ies. Now is the time for us to plan for the future.

A good library has immense value for the students. Also, visitors judge a college on the basis of its library facilities. Accrediting bodies rate our college on the library building and the number of books in it. Prospective students choosing a college are interested in what kind of library is on campus.

in a liberal arts college like Whittier, the library should be the center of the campus. More students would want to use the library if Whittier constructed a new, modern building. Good books require a good home. What does Whittier plan to do about financing and building this home? CA

Business wound up last Tuesday night at the final Exec meeting for the semester in a three hour session. Reports were given by the chairmen of various standing committees and special Exec committees

PRODUCTION EXPENSES

The most important business conducted was the consideration and approval of the budget presented by Marion, Itemized the budget was adjusted as follows: Publicity Comm. $50; Program Comm. $225; Rally Comm. $400; Rel. Coord. Council $35; Social Chairman $335; Trophies $160; Model UN $30; Sports Banquet $200; Student Directory $160; Student-aculty Conference $180; Conferences and Trips $100; Orientation Week $400; Treasurer's Salary $100; and Misc. $600.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE

Workday for the college was once more brought to the attention of the Exec. The discussion in the latter part of the meeting singled out the pros and cons of the situation. But after due consideration Exec felt workday should be continued. tinued

FINAL(E) BUSINESS

Because the column did not appear in last week's QC, it seems appropriate to bring up some old business in the form of the Student Directory. Due to increased costs of the Directory, it makes it inevitable a nominal fee be charged. The William Penn will still handle the publishing, but the directory will be sold by the ASWC to the students. The ASWC will receive some revenue from this project, but it will be relative to the handling costs.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

Having gone through the M batch of midterms, I have come to the conclusion that there is no honor here. To say that all the students here cheat is most cer-tainly unfair, but it certainly is not the exception to the rule

The most sickening display of parasitic learning has become more and more obvious to me as more tests are given. Grades here, to me, have come to mean who has the best telescopic eyesight and the most innocent

I know many students who go home and really "crack the books" for a test. I don't care hour before a test, but they study on their own time from their own material. Then there are those who never take a note in class but at the last minute "borrow" everybody else's. When grades come out, both groups may get the same grades, but really, who "passed" the test?

Whittier College is great, and it also has its faults. I don't ex-pect it to be perfect. But, the way some people knock education by going through school by doing nothing but cheating is outragstudy honestly.
