Dear Friends . . .

It is indeed unfortunate that my introduction to you as Director of Alumni Affairs through the letter in "The Rock" could not have been a personal one. Even though I know many of you there remains a vast majority whom I will not be able to meet for some time. I certainly hope that through various alumni luncheons, homecomings and chapter meetings I will be able to greet you personally as your campus representative.

I received a letter the other day from Mr. John Christopher of Long Beach which was indeed a tribute to the cooperative nature of some of our fellow alumni. The theme of his letter was the seeking of information regarding possible ways in which the Long Beach Chapter could contribute to the overall program of the Alumni Association. Such a letter is very encouraging and welcome in an Alumni Office operating under somewhat restrictive conditions.

The spirit of cooperation so important as a central core around which to build a strong group such as the Alumni Association must first of all be inherent in the individual alumnus. The individual alumnus derives his feelings for the college from the vast reservoir of reminiscences he has accumulated since his "good old college days." Those things remembered of the "old" college can be revived when friends and acquaintances get together.

Homecoming at Whittier College is approaching rapidly and I can think of no better way to relive and re-enjoy some of those experiences, some pleasant and others not so pleasant. Make your plans now to attend what we hope will be the biggest college reunion since its founding. The program for Homecoming, November 13, will be found on the following pages.

I certainly hope that this office will enjoy the progress both in number of alumni "found" and rapport established in the coming years that has been illustrated in the past years by the diligent labors of our good friend Ed Paterson. The momentum for this progress rest in you, the direction rests in this office. Continue to support actively YOUR organization.

If there are any matters relative to your locating persons whom you knew at the college or other alumni projects undertaken please feel free to write or call your Alumni Office for assistance.

We can start another successful year for the Association by attending Homecoming in great numbers. I hope to see many of you at that time.

Sincerely

KEN BEYER '47

NEW QUARTER-MILLION-DOLLAR BUILDING DEDICATED ON CAMPUS AS WHITTIER COLLEGE HONORS MEMORY OF LOU HENRY HOOVER

A major stride in the progress of Whittier College was taken this fall with the formal dedication of Lou Henry Hoover Memorial Hall, beautiful new quarter-million-dollar classroom and office building named in honor of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, late beloved member of the Whittier College Board of Trustees and graduate of the original Whittier Academy.

Honored guests at the impressive ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hoover, sons of the former President and Lou Henry Hoover, and their wives, and Mrs. W. L. Honnold, long-time intimate of the Hoover family.

Dr. William C. Jones, president of Whittier College, presided at the dedication. Following a few introductory remarks, Dr. Jones presented Herbert Hoover, Jr., Allan Hoover, and Mrs. Honnold. Herbert Hoover, Jr., read a congratulatory message from his father.

George A. Thacher, representing the contractor, began the traditional passing of the key to the new building by handing it to William H. Harrison, college architect and designer of Lou Henry Hoover Memorial Hall. Harrison, in turn, gave the key to John G. Swain, chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee of the Whittier College Board of Trustees, who turned it over to Ashton M. Otis, president of the Board. Otis handed the key to Dr. Harold F. Spencer, dean of the college, who completed the ritual by giving the key to Leonard Crofoot, president of the Associated Students of Whittier College. Each official spoke briefly as he received the key.

Following a dedicatory prayer by Dr. W. O. Mendenhall, former president of Whittier College, Crofoot unlocked the door to Hoover Memorial Hall, and the public was invited to inspect the new building.

Of California Colonial style, Lou Henry Hoover Hall includes over 14,000 square feet of floor space and houses 13 classrooms, four offices, and a large lecture hall.

Made up of a two-story central section with a one-story north wing, the steel and concrete building holds eight classrooms, two offices, and a lecture hall on the ground floor, and five classrooms and two offices on the second floor. A partially-enclosed terrace to the north of the main section will serve as an outdoor classroom during fair weather, and a south wing is included in future plans for enlargement of the building.

Two of the principal rooms in the building, the Lautrup Lecture Hall and the Maude Hanna Dow classroom, were contributed by friends of Whittier College.

Offices in Lou Henry Hoover Memorial Hall include the Office of Alumni Affairs, the Office of the Financial Secretary, the Department of Public Relations, and the office of Miss Esther Andrews, professor of German and secretary of the faculty.

Enrollment Records Crash As Registration Tops 1,300

Smashing all previous enrollment figures, a record 1,303 students had enrolled at Whittier College for the first semester of the 1948-49 school year as this issue of THE ROCK went to press.

Last year's record enrollment of 1,138 has been topped by nearly 200 students as Whittier College continues to expand its facilities to cope with the rush.

An unexpected increase in veteran enrollment came when 560 vets registered as compared with the 516 enrolled last year. In the new freshmen class of 213, however, only 38 are veterans. Making up the class of '52 are 111 women and 102 men.

Greatest enrollment increase over last year came in the junior class this fall. The class was greatly bolstered by the enrollment of a large number of transfer students from junior colleges throughout Southern California.

OCTOBER 1948

OVER 30 WHITTIER COLLEGE ALUMNI GATHER FOR PRE-GAME DINNER IN SAN FRANCISCO

Over 30 Whittier College alumni gathered in the Corinthian Room of the Hotel Whitcomb in San Francisco, October 1, for a Poet alumni dinner-meeting preceding the Whittier College-San Francisco State College football game.

Arriving at the hotel, Quaker alumni were greeted in the lobby by Ken Beyer, Whittier College director of alumni affairs, then given opportunity to inspect a display board showing pictures of the newest additions to the Whittier College campus. At 6:15, the group sat down to a sumptuous chicken dinner.

G. Duncan Wimpers, Whittier College director of public relations, extended greetings of the Poet faculty and administration to the group and spoke briefly on the 1948 Quaker football squad. He hesitated, however, to predict a score for the game that night.

Ken Beyer, in charge of arranging the meeting and presiding at the dinner, drew names out of a hat to determine winners of several complimentary passes for the football game.

The group adjourned at 7:15 in order to have time to reach the San Francisco State field before kickoff time.

Alumni attending who signed the register were: Walter Stoesling, Elinor Giguette Potter, Mary J. Pollock, Dr. and Mrs. John Spence, Shirley Freeburg, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Burroughs (Mary Henderson), William L. Woodnutt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elkington, Mildred Smith Hendrix, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cole, Florence Winget Watson, Ted Kennard, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Breitkientz, Ed Paterson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mounts, Mr. and Mrs. Eliot Wirt, and Mr. and Mrs. Walt Mazzone.

Broadoaks School . . .

NEW $80,000 BROADOAKS SCHOOL DEDICATED AT WHITTIER COLLEGE; MODERN, FUNCTIONAL BUILDING FEATURES BROOKS MEMORIAL ROOM

As Whittier College continued to expand this fall, the new Broadoaks School of Whittier College was completed and opened to the public. An $80,000 structure, the new model plant, designed by William H. Harrison, college architect, incorporates the most modern aids for the best in teacher-training.

Functionally designed for maximum efficiency, the new Broadoaks School includes a spacious playroom, work-rooms, faculty offices, reception room, nurse's clinic, kitchen, and the Brooks Memorial Room, named in honor of the founders of Broadoaks. A special story-telling nook is built into the main playroom and a play porch extends along one side of the building.

Originally a home for infants and young children established by the Misses Ada Mae and Imelda Brooks, Broadoaks School came into being as a progressive, open-air, kindergarten-primary school in Pasadena in 1909.

In 1912, the Broadoaks Kindergarten Teacher-Training School was organized, and in 1923, the school was incorporated as the Broadoaks Pre-Kindergarten, Kindergarten, Primary Training School. In 1931, the school, along with a substantial endowment, was deeded to Whittier College.

Three years ago, the Whittier College Board of Trustees authorized the moving of the school from its Pasadena location to its home on the Whittier College campus. Ground was broken for the new building in an impressive ceremony last February. The dedication of the new model plant completes this major step in the history of the famous school.

Miss Mabel F. Rice, professor of education at Whittier College, serves as Director of the Broadoaks School. Working with Miss Rice are Miss Elsie Grime, assistant professor of education and head teacher of the kindergarten school, and Miss Viola D. Luring, assistant professor of education and head teacher of the nursery school. Dr. Ethel Johnson serves as Broadoaks pediatrician, while Dr. Gladys Stevenson is nutritionist; Dr. O. B. Baldwin, psychologist; and Leila Finck, R. N., is the Broadoaks School nurse.

Carefully supervised teaching practice plus a well-rounded educational background form the nucleus of the Broadoaks teacher-training program. Students are admitted to the Broadoaks School only after meeting the requirements of the freshman and sophomore years at an accredited college or university.

Dr. Roy E. Simpson, director of education for the State of California, gave the featured talk at a dedicatory dinner held recently on the Whittier College campus for alumnae and friends of Broadoaks School.

Serving on the committee on arrangements for the Broadoaks dedication were Mrs. Bettie Lewis Ellis, president of the Broadoaks alumnae; Miss Rice; Marian Jenkins, national president of Delta Phi Upsilon; Lucia W. Smith, long-time Broadoaks faculty member; and Kenneth G. Beyer, director of alumni affairs for Whittier College.

HOMECOMING DAY

DR. HERBERT E. HARRIS DRAWS UPON MANY YEARS' EXPERIENCE IN RELATING STORY OF BIRTH AND GROWTH OF WHITTIER COLLEGE

For many Poet alumni, the names Whittier College and Herbert E. Harris have become so closely welded together as to make it almost impossible to define the line where one leaves off and the other begins.

Herbert E. Harris, distinguished author of "The Quaker and the West", and professor emeritus of English at the Quaker school, first joined the Poet faculty in 1901 as professor of English. In 1902, in addition to his teaching chores, he assumed the duties of basketball coach. Later he was instrumental in bringing football, baseball, and track to the Whittier College campus. Dr. Harris was among those who leveled the ground for what later was to be Hadley Field.

The Whittier College professor was away from the college from 1910 to 1920, engaged in Y.M.C.A. war work and in ranching. In 1920, he once again returned to the Poet fold as professor of English, and held that position until 1937.

During this time, Dr. Harris served as vice-president of the college from 1931 to 1933, and as acting president in the 1933-34 school year.

Devoting his time to free-lance writing, Dr. Harris gave up teaching in 1937, but once again returned to Whittier College in 1939, this time as director of extension and publicity. He stayed at this post until 1941, when he officially retired. A top-notch fund raiser, as shown by his record, the Whittier College professor headed a group which raised money in 1903 to pay for the then-new athletic fields. In 1904, he organized the students and raised $500 to have the original landscaping done on the Poet campus, and the following year was instrumental in raising funds for the first Whittier College gymnasium.

Asked about his own career, Dr. Harris merely chuckles and comments that his major claim to fame is that he is the only member of the Whittier College faculty, past or present, who has been "hired and fired four times."

Tributes paid to the professor through the years, however, give a true picture of the esteem with which he has been regarded since his arrival on the Poet campus, 47 years ago.

From the ACROPOLIS of 1902, Agnes Sargeant, editor: "Professor H. E. Harris has pursued his work with such enthusiasm that the effect of his unceasing labor cannot fail to be seen in the original and individual thought among the English students. Other results are increased interest in athletics, deeper appreciation of the beautiful, and a more ardent class spirit throughout the college."

From the ACROPOLIS of 1910, Albert Marshburn, editor: "Professor Harris for nine years has not only conducted splendid English courses, but has also coached basketball and staged the plays. To lose Professor Harris is like removing a pillar from a building."

From the ACROPOLIS of 1923, Arthur Corey, editor: "To Professor H. E. Harris, who, through his undaunted courage and interest in the welfare of Whittier College, has aroused the admiration and appreciation of all interested in the college, we dedicate the ACROPOLIS of 1923."

Dick Tucker, versatile Poet quarterback, is a two-year letterman at Whittier College. One of the hardest running backs on the squad, Dick has another year of eligibility left due to a war-time ruling. Dick hails from Long Beach, weighs 180 pounds, and stands 6' 1" tall.

Captain Lee Kulzer is playing his third year of varsity football for the Purple and Gold this season. In two years, he has earned as many varsity letters, and this season, heads the Quaker squad. Weighing 190 pounds and standing 5' 11" tall, Lee is a Whittier boy.

QUAKER GRIDIRON FUTURE STILL IN DOUBT AS "ROCK" GOES TO PRESS; HOT-AND-COLD POET SQUAD HANGS UP ONE WIN AND TWO LOSSES

As this issue of "The Rock" goes to press, the hot-and-cold Quaker gridiron squad has won one game and lost two. The Poets opened their 1948 football season against Santa Barbara College at Whittier. After handing the Gauchos two touchdowns in the first quarter, the Poets battled back through the remaining three stanzas to almost nip the confident visitors. Final score of the thriller was 21-19 for Santa Barbara College.

In their second game, the Quakers traveled to San Francisco to meet the Golden Gators of San Francisco State College. After completely dominating the first half and leading, 7-0, at the beginning of the third stanza, the Poets, hit by a costly fumble behind their goal line and several injuries, fell apart and succumbed to a battling Gator eleven, 18-7.

The Quakers roared back in their third tilt to down the California Polytechnic College Broncos from San Dimas, 20-7, in the second Poet home game of the season. Trailing, 7-6, at halftime, the unpredictable Quakers came out for the second half to completely overwhelm the visitors and score twice in as many quarters.

The Poets tackle a powerful California Aggie squad on Hadley Field, November 13, in the 1948 Whittier College Homecoming game. Faced with a heavy, potent Aggie line, Quaker Coach Wallace "Chief" Newman may order his grid charges to take to the air in an effort to outscore the visitors. After last year's thrilling 15-12 win over Pomona College at Homecoming time, a capacity crowd is expected to turn out for the Whittier College-California Aggie tilt this season.

Thirteen varsity letterman from the 1947 squad, plus a strong delegation from last season's championship Poet frosh team, answered Coach Newman's call for grid candidates this fall.

Faced with a lack of weight in his backfield, "Chief," coaching his nineteenth straight season at Whittier College, excluding the war years, is using a short punt formation to give his small, shifty backs a chance to break away more easily. Passing from this formation is done principally by the quarterback playing close to the line. Dick Tucker, Charlie Hall, and Charlie Reed have been on the throwing end of the Poet aerial attack so far this season.

Adorned by completely new uniforms, from shoes to gold pants, to blue jerseys, to gold helmets, the Quaker eleven have two games remaining after their Homecoming tilt with the Cal Aggies, November 13. On November 20, the Poets tackle the University of Redlands Bulldogs at Orange Show Stadium in San Bernardino, and on November 27, they close their 10-game, 1948 season against Arizona State College (Flagstaff) on Hadley Field.

Varsity lettermen from last year's squad now playing on the Poet grid team include Captain Leland Kulzer and Earl Ryerson, ends; Gene Marrs and Walter Hackett, tackles; Bill Payne, Evan McKinney, and Claude Oakes, guards; and Dick Tucker, Charles Hall, Jack Wood, Joe Feary, Bob Marvin, and Buckner Harris, backs. Don Axelson, pivotman on last season's frosh squad, is filling the center slot on the varsity this year and won the Earl Douglas Shoe Award for the outstanding Whittier College player in the Poets' opening game against Santa Barbara. Jack Murdy and John Haddon are lettermen from the 1946 Poet team who are seeing action this year, and Don Conde, a letterman at Whittier College before the war, is alternating with Axelson at the center spot.

From the ACROPOLIS of 1930, Bruce Gates, editor: "To Professor Herbert Harris, in appreciation of the many contributions he has made to the development of Whittier College, the 1930 ACROPOLIS is respectfully dedicated."

From the ACROPOLIS of 1940, Helen Stephens, editor: "Dr. Herbert Harris in his long years of service to the college has been directly responsible for many of the most valuable additions to our campus."

From the minutes of the Whittier College Board of Trustees of 1941 (a letter to Herbert E. Harris): "The Board of Trustees of Whittier College wishes to express sincere regret in accepting your resignation and our deep respect for the lasting influence you have had. Your enthusiasm, faith, and persistence have helped us in many difficult times. We shall always feel that you are inseparably a part of Whittier College."

In his book, "The Quaker and The West", Herbert Harris tells many of his experiences in 47 years of association with Whittier College. He tells of the heartbreak, the faith, the companionship, and the grit which have made Whittier College the great small college it is today. His story is a human, heart-warming tale of the growth of a college, and like all good stories, it has a happy ending.
